PROPHECY

Ring!!!

"I'll get it, Dick," exclaims Shirley Schorr picking up the telephone. "Hello, oh, yes, Joyce, that will be all right. Yes, oh, no. Well, I'm going to wear my pink sweater, no my blue one goes better with my red skirt."

As we look in on the small bungalow at 1353 Cameron Lane (named for Senator Conneth Cameron) we find the Richard Schorrs (formerly Shirley Wright) getting ready for their evening guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Blount (nee Joyce Ellison). The Blounts are coming over for an evening of canasta, television, and food.

"That was Joyce. She said they would be a little late tonight."

"Shirley, have you got the cards and food ready? You know how those Blounts eat."

"Joyce is trying the new Shipley Shapely Slenderizing pills for the hard-to-get thin type so I don't think she will eat too much. Dear, did you have a nice time at the club meeting last night?" questioned Shirley. I was talking to our new neighbors, Charles and Clarence Brown, and they said that they enjoyed it."

"Well, I didn't like it. They had a speaker from Trenton, New Jersey, David Reiner his name was. All he talked about was the manufacture of sousaphones. What a bore! He brought along a John Hopkins. He played a solo on the bass. That wasn't so bad but that speaker, wow!"

"Didn't they have a quartet or something like that?"

"Oh, yes, it was Forrest Scott, Joe Toman, Eddie Biegert, and Bobby Johnson. They sang the Beckett Blues and the Blossom Song.

"Dick," suggests Shirley, "let's eat out for a change so I won't have to cook."

"Okay, honey grab your coat and let's go."

As Dick backs his Chamber's Chariot out of the driveway he sees Vernon Copas coming up the street in his Rosin roadster. Seeing Dick, Vernon pulled up to the curb.

"Copas, of all people. What are you doing these days?"

"Oh, I'm on television right now. I'll be on tonight in my program, Vernon's Virtues. Pretty good, you should see it. I have some people you know on the program, JoAnn Schrenker, Bonnie Wilson, and Shirley Rice."

"Well, I'll be seeing you tonight. 'bye!"

Our friends are planning to eat in the fashionable Anderson Gourmet Room in the Detrick Hotel. When they reach Anderson's they are greeted by Jack and Judy themselves. They are shown to a cozy table in the corner. The waiter approaches and asks what they would like to eat.

"Well, if it isn't our old friend, Jerry Downie! How are you, Jerry?"

"I'm just fine, folks. And what would you all like to eat tonight?"

"Mashed potatoes, filet mignon, shrimp salad, and champaign," says Shirley. "Incidentally, Dick is trying to cut down on the food bill."

"I'll take a cheeseburger on rye and water," says Dick gloomily.

"Would you people mind if we sit here?"

"Hey, Shirley, it's Shirley Whitton and Ernie Weiser and here's Pete Roemer and Alberta Cox. Isn't this a surprise? Sit down and join us everybody."

Shirley talks, "We have been wondering where all of our school friends have been keeping themselves. By the way, how long have you two been going together, Shirley and Ernie?"

"Almost eight years now and we're still going steady."

As our friends start eating, the orchestra and soloists appear. Jack and Judy Anderson introduce Doug Wimmer, the conductor and his right hand man, Frank Witt. The first soloist of the evening is Marty Craft singing Born's Boogie Woogie, a favorite on the hit parade. A round of applause follows as Jim Tuttle, at the drums, and Charles VonStein, at the organ play on.

"Dick, don't you think we should stop at Parsley's Candy Parlor on Lambertson Lane and get some Chadwell chocolates for this evening?" I just love them."

"Dear, you talk in riddles; don't you think I know where to get Chad's chocolates," says Dick. I'll drive around the block while you go in and buy them. Better get a pound and a half."

As Shirley walks into the store she is met by Janice Reece, the head clerk. A staff of fine young ladies, Barbara Sims, Lucille Philpot, Betty Nickel, Loretta Haege and Gwen Williams, are working for her. Shirley makes her purchase and, as she leaves, meets Bill Ellis in the doorway. Bill is selling carpet sweepers for the Salyer Sweeper Company. Dick is waiting at the curb.

"Guess who I saw," says Dick. Doris Deaton and you can't imagine what she is doing. She is a basketball player on the Arent Athletics Team. Doris said that Myrtle Smith, Patty Pierce, Iva Tussey, June Hornsby, Jenalee Fore, Audrey Bartesko, and Mary George are on the team."

"Say, isn't that Jim Warner pushing that perambulator down the street?" exclaims Dick. "I wonder who he hitched up with. I'll stop the car. Say, Jim, what do you have there?"

"This is my boy, and he's a future football star," says Jim proudly.

As Shirley and Dick reach home they find someone knocking on their door.

"How do you do? I am Carole Merz representing the Sharon Spence Beauty Salon in New York."

"Carole Merz!" says Shirley surprised. Do come in. I need some Black Mask Face Cream and I'll see what else you have."

As Carole leaves the phone rings. It is Robert Hage, the carpenter, calling about that repair job. Dick puts up the card tables and Shirley fixes sandwiches. The Copas program is announced on the television and Dick and Shirley sit down to await the Blounts. Following Vernon's program the announcer speaks, "And now we have Dick Hayward begging you to buy McCracken's Crackles or I'll lose my job. On with the Walter Popp Peppy Amateur Show. Take it away, Walt."

"Our next contestants for the $300 jackpot are Becky Halcomb and Barbara Gray, the well known acrobatic stars of the Robert Wolff Movies, Inc. Good Luck, Becky and Barb."

At this point the doorbell rings and Joyce and Jim come in.

"What a lovely coat you have, Joyce! Where did you get it?"

Joyce answers, "I got it at Houck's Ready-To-Wear. You aught to go down there; they have some good bargains. I was over there last Friday and saw Kay Hogan. She's clerking there."

"Doesn't Kathy Tabor work there, too? I was talking to Peggy Turner just the other day and she said that Kathy had gone to work at Houck's."

Joyce and Shirley go out to the kitchen to fix refreshments and the men watch Barbara and Becky on the television.

Shirley says, "Let's have some Pierson's Pretzels. They're really good. Joyce, you can start on the drinks."

Meanwhile Dick and Jim turn to "The Mystery House". The announcer, Jack Hart is speaking. "Tonight our mystery, taken from the Marilyn Doan classics is The Corpse in the Sea. The characters are Laverne Corson as Michael Fitzgerald, Bill Evans as Harry Samson, and Betty Meyers as Marilyn Ziegfield. So, on with the play."

Jim speaks, "Ah, don't let's get involved in a mystery. I'll turn to channel 4; I think that Radley Boark (Bradley Roark) T.V. Television Show is on."

"Good evening, ladies and gentlemen," master of ceremonies, Radley Boark, announces. "This is the T.V. Talent Show featuring such celebrated stars as Della Robinson with her magnificent artistic ability, Leona Steele and her steel guitar, Dan Hurst whose jokes will keep you awake at night, and many other nationally known celebrities. Before we start, here is our announcer, Dale Wagers."

"As most of you know, T.V. Talent is sponsored by those wonderful soap flakes, Scherzinger Crystallized Egg Shells. Here is an unrehearsed, authentic letter from Mr. Ralph McCowan, 643 Richter Boulevard (adapted from Henry Richter, the wealthy hotel magnet), Myers, Georgia. Mr. McCowan says, 'My wife is the fussy kind who uses only choice soaps which are kind to her hands and that is why she prefers Scherzinger Crystallized Egg Shells.' Thank you very much, Ralph. You are just one of many thousands who write such letters every day. I shall mention some of the writers of today's fan mail; Miss Joy Reynolds, Mr. Dale Mallicote, Miss Marlene Joskem, Miss Ellen Campbell, Mr. William Helton, and Mrs. William Hurd. Now back to T.V. Talent with Radley Boark."

"Okay, Dale, and I'm sure all you listeners will try Scherzinger's Crystallized Egg Shells on your next wash. Compliment cupfuls go to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyd, Miss Glenna Gray, Mrs. Melvin Flynn, and Mrs. Don Patrick. Our first contestant for the $75,000 jackpot is Miss Elaine Conrad with her ukulele playing I Got Those Harbin Hiccoughs. All right, Elaine, do your best. Meanwhile our television operators offstage are calling people all over the United States to see if anybody can answer the jackpot question, 'What is the exact volume of the earth?' If it is answered on this program, we shall tell our audience. Our operators are calling Miss Katherine Schwartz, Mr. Harry Misel, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Adams, Miss Faye Pennington, and Miss Joan Spriggs. Our Elrod applause meter reads 850 on Elaine's solo number. Our next contestant is Jerry Kinch, trumpet player for Jim Scott's Swing Band of the famous Beancacasa Club."

Dick speaks, "I'm going to turn to another channel. I'm getting tired of that stuff."

"Birdlegs, the new exciting and different perfume, brings you Vernon Wilson, outstanding television commentator, with the news from the five edges of the world. But, first, a word from Birdlegs."

"In the exclusive Marlene Pfeil Salon in New York, beautiful models such as Louise Parrish, Cynthia Vance, Jean Crittenden, Lois Hopkins, Joan Adams, Donna Colgate, and Betty Harris keep themselves fresh and sparkling. That's why these models and many more choose Birdlegs. And now here is Mr. Wilson."

"The coal strike today shows no sign of tapering off but John Dooley, head of the Mine Workers' Union, is still holding a firm stand on national coal affairs.

"Abroad, Ken McAdams when he conferred with Robert Scalf, United States treasurer, says he will reduce the pound to 3¢ sometime this week. Hold your hats everybody!

"In Minnesota, Ellen Laven, Ruth Riley, Joan Wells, and Lois Owens, all registered nurses, saved the lives of three marooned hikers when they were caught in an unexpected blizzard. The rescued were Nelson Benzing, prosperous Eastern businessman, Dick Cook, fullback on the Notre Dame football team, and Vernon Webb, director of athletics at the University of Iowa. Webb is a nephew of the actress, Saundra Hutzelman.

"The president of the United States, Wayne Rahiser, talked behind locked doors to the secretary of state, Boyd Palmer, on what to do with our recently acquired possession, Russia. The discussion will be in the newspapers tomorrow.

"Actress Sandy Cornett and sugar millionaire, Robert Wynn, will be married in the William Campbell Hotel on June 30. Also, Joe Arthur, who wrote Mr. Elwell Goes To School will marry Shirley Getz tomorrow. She is the director at G.M.G.

"Alan Haid, nationally-known comedian, who broke an arm and leg in a car accident on Monday will undergo treatment in the James Lipscomb Medical Clinic at Yorkshire.

"Flora Begley, head of the Women's Federated Teachers' Association and her committee members, Sandy Locke, Shirley Gaines, Virginia March, and Jeannine Hammons adopted a resolution to raise all teachers pay from $5,000 a year to $6,050.

"This is your favorite television correspondent signing off for tonight and wishing you all good night."

Dick pops up. "Say, I believe I'll try to find a quiz program. Shirley and I usually answer the questions. Here's one on channel 6."

"How do you do, audience. This is Marlene Smith, your mistress of ceremonies with more questions and answers. But first our announcer, Bob Reffit."

"When William Spears invented his famous cough medicine, he not only made a remedy for coughs but also one which will cure rheumatic fever, tonsilitis, appendicitis, athletes feet, and many other mild distrubances. If pain persists, see your doctor."

"Thank you, Bob, and our first contestant is Mrs. Robert Sauer of Washington, D.C. How do you do, Mrs. Sauer? What does your husband do?"

"He's an electrician. I wonder if I could say 'Hello' to some friends?"

"Sure, go ahead."

"Hi mom and pop. Hello kiddies."

"Okay, what is your first name, Mrs. Sauer?"

"Minnie Lou."

"Here is your question for that charming Sandra Witters tailored tweed suit. 'Who was the fourth president of the United States?' You have 10 seconds to answer. Think Minnie, that suit sure is a humdinger."

"I think it was Madison."

"Right, congratulations, Mrs. Sauer, and who is our next contestant, Bob?"

"Miss Shirley Doyle, a stenographer from Miami, Florida."

"And what brings you to Hollywood, Shirley?"

"I'm here on business for my boss."

"Shirley, your question is, 'Who is the Secretary of Agriculture?'"

"James Denney."

"That's right and you win the new and exciting Marvin Flynn one-passenger airplane. Boy, you can really go places, Shirley. Our next contestant is the man who wrote the best seller, The Hilarious Adventures of Tommy Croucher. The author is Dick Crawford and we are greatly honored to have him on our show.

"At this time we would like to take off our hats to the people who make this show possible. First, our sponsor, Spear Mentholated Cough Drops; our script writers, Don Purkey and his assistants, Jim Tussey and Jackie Marcum; then our stage crew of Dick Tuley, Harold Isaacs, Pete Jones, and Jan Poynter. Last, but not least, our cameramen, Tom Stomps, Vernon Reist, Don Evans, Carl Arnold, and Ron Hicks. Now, back to our contestant, Mr. Crawford. Dick, your question, 'Who is the new editor of Popular Science?' For a Tom Hall golf set you should be able to answer that."

"I'll say Burt Parker."

"Oh, I'm so sorry. He was the last editor. The new one is Christy Setzler. And now our announcer for Carole Altman Face Creams."

"Carole Altman Face Creams are used by many of New York's famous models. Here is an unbiased statement written by Miss Ruth Fox. She says, 'I used Carole's Face Cream exclusively for sixty days and found my skin to be softer and more alluring.' And here is another statement from Loretta Hooker, fashion editor of Harpers Bazaar. Miss Hooker writes, 'I tried Carole's Face Cream and my face became less oily and had more color.' And now for more prize seekers. Marlene, your next contestant for a Shirley Napier handbag is Miss Judy Morris from Albany, N.Y."

"What is your occupation, Miss Morris?"

"I am a governess in the home of Lady Lucia Rolfe in Hamshire, England."

"Then you're from England?"

"No, I went over about five years ago."

"Miss Morris, your question is, 'What famous actor and actress were recently married?'"

"I don't think I know because I haven't been following the news over here."

"Oh, I'm sorry and as a consolation prize we are offering you a very exclusive arrangement of the Deisel Song by Joan Higgins. The two stars are Winnie Joyce and Jim Rice. We haven't time for another so here's our announcer, Bob."

"Okay, Marlene, and I'm going to talk about another of our sponsors, the Carole Ohr Travel Service. Miss Ohr can direct you to any place in the world. And now we sign off until next week at this same time. Here's Marlene."

"Goodby, everybody, and I'll be seeing you next week."

The Blounts and the Schorrs turn off the television and play canasta until 1:00 a.m. The Blounts leave.

Next morning as Dick reads the newspaper at the breakfast table, he says, "Listen to this. Mayor Robert Hurd is planning a parade in honor of the alumnae of Wilson. Let's go, Shirley. All participants in the parade are asked to disguise themselves. Following the parade there will be a luncheon at Jim States' country home on route 167. All alumnae are invited."

When the big day arrives Dick and Shirley dress as a policeman and a policewoman. Down town they get mixed with the crowd, dressed in gold costumes. These are the guards from Ft. Knox. Ernest Barnes, Hubert Stewart, Dick Krehbiel, and Gurnie Retherford make up this group. Jane McGraw and Mary Spada are dressed to represent the comedy team, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Richter (Lois McBurney). Janice Reece and Dick Rawlings appear as the King and Queen of England. On down the street the Cosmopolitan Club from Chicago, Shirley Fortner, Jim Dilg, Don Jarvis, and Ann Rich, move through the crowd.

Bob Moore and Dorothy Limerick are the first to arrive at the luncheon where Bill Conlin offers to park their car. Ray Brunner, the butler, greets the guests at the door. Mr. Richard Ott, Mr. States' private secretary, accompanies them to the main drawing room. Shirley and Dick enter and are followed by Lois Schooley, Anna Tewart, Barbara Wilson, Peggy Leveline, and Naomi Mayse, all typists for the Kenneth House Publishing Company.

Jimmy Coates, chef, announces dinner. The dinner is served by Bob Everhart,caterer, and his staff, Betty Cory, Kathleen Allen, Alean Cowan, Eugene Moenck, and Jesse Hurley. The apetizer, Alvie's Delight, was concocted by Alvie Everhart, the head cook. His assistants are Tom Clark, Patty Wilson, Marilyn Shepherd, Betty Johnson, and Patty Mullin.

As a part of the program, Ann Schwarz read a history of Wilson. Each person was asked to give an account of himself since his days at Wilson. Letters from those alumnae who were unable to attend were read. JoEtta Sciutti from Los Angeles, Pauletta Kammeron of Dallas, Dolores Montgomery, who has a dude ranch at Phoenix, and Nancy Holland, who was in Europe, have sent their regrets.

Music provided by Iva Woods and Patty O'Connor was a feature. Joyce West and Etta Mae Atyeo played a duet on the piano. In the most unusual careers contest, Ronald Deaton took first place. Ronald is the father of 11 children, all present Wilson students. Barbara Stamper and Velma Cain, airplane hostesses, and Bill Clark, track star of the University of Illinois, were awarded second and third prizes. For the most unusual occupation, Barbara Turner, who manages a traveling circus, Don Brockman and Bob Durham, jet flyers in Alaska, Barbara Burton, Sylvia Cochran, and Cozy Collier operators of a local laundry, and Winifred Connely, Marlene Gillespie, Pat Dwyer, and Patty Couch, co-owners of a drug store, took special awards.

So ends the happy reunion and another day in the lives of Shirley and Dick Schorr.
